

CLAIMS

What is claimed is:

1. A remote target control system comprising:

a telephone,

5 an interface disposed in communication with the telephone, and a computer disposed in communication with the interface and at least one target for selectively actuating a target in response to signals received from the telephone.

10

2. The remote target control system according to claim 1, wherein the telephone comprises a cordless handset and a base unit.

15

3. A remote target control system comprising:

a cordless telephone and a target range device disposed in communication with the cordless telephone and responsive to signals generated by use of the cordless telephone.

20